Open Access FAQs

Scroll down to read our most frequently asked questions about Open Access across books, journals and conference proceedings.

This is a growing resource, so please get in touch with any additional questions.

General Open Access

How is the publication process different for paid-for and open ac MENU cess books?

Do you market Open Access publications?

What are the different types of Open Access?

There are four different types of Open Access, depending on the needs of the author and the funders.

Green Open Access is when the pdf can be shared on the university repository, author's website, funder's website and research platforms such as Academia.org. At AUP, this is only ever the AAM (Author Accepted Manuscript) rather than the AUP layout file. AUP has no embargos (delay / waiting time) for Green Open Access. We are featured in both Sherpa Romeo Green Open Acces and JISCinitiatives.

Gold Open Access is when a text is published in Open Access. For books, the whole book must be published in Open Access. For journals, they can be hybrid, where some articles are open access and some are behind a paywall.

Diamond/Platinum Open Access is paid for by a 'third party', such as an institution, association or funder. For journals, this could be a 'Subscribe to Open' (S20) set up whereby journals keep their subscriptions database but the journal is freely accessible.

Bronze Open Access is content that can only be read in OA on the publisher's website. This is because the publisher makes it freely available but there is no CC-BY license that allows further use. It is comparable to Free access, but the intention is that it is not temporary. AUP's delayed open access journals could be labelled Bronze OA.

What type of Open Access does AUP support?

Do you have another question about publishing in Open Access with AUP? MENU

Open Access Books

Where can my Open Access book, journal or article be accessed and downloaded?

I am a published AUP author, where can I share my manuscript?

If you are publishing a paid e-book, then you may share the author's version of your book/chapter via our Green Open Access commitment.

You may share the author's version, ie. the manuscript after peer-review and accepted for publication, for instance as Microsoft Word file, RTF or PDF, but not the AUP print proof or final PDF.

When you share this version, please credit the original record as the book listed on the AUP website. Please include the ISBN for the book to make it easy for readers to cite the article, book chapter or monograph. For journals, please credit the article's version of record: this is the article in the original journal on www.aup-online.com. Please include the DOI (digital object identifier) for chapters and journal articles (which looks like this: dx.doi.org/10.5117/XXX.X.XXX) to make it easy for readers to cite the article.

Only if your contribution is published as Immediate Open Access, you are free to share the official version of the PDF.

Can I publish my book/article on my personal website and/or institutional repository?

This is possible through Green Open Access. We support and actively encourac - thors to share an appropriately credited author's version of academic book ch MENU , monographs and journal articles on institutional repositories, their personal website, and on websites such as ResearchGate or Academia.edu. The author's version is the manuscript after peer-review and accepted for publication, for instance as Microsoft Word file, RTF or PDF, but not the AUP print proof or final PDF.

Where can I publish supplementary material?

If you have supplementary material for your title or require a version to be online prior to official publication, you may ask AUP to upload this to our Figshare account.

How much does publishing an Open Access book cost?

How do I find funding for Open Access?

When do I need to secure Open Access funding?

How can I submit an Open Access book proposal?

What formats do you publish as Open Access?

Open Access Journals

Where can my Open Access journal be found?

What are article processing charges at AUP?

How do I submit an Open Access article?

MENU

I am a published AUP author, where can I share my manuscript?

Open Access Conference Proceedings

Where will Conference Proceedings be published?

All our Conference Proceedings are published in Open Access on aup-online.com

How much does it cost to publish Open Access Conference Proceedings?

AUP's full Conference Proceeding service includes a one-time set-up fee of €895, along with a per-paper fee based on the number of accepted submissions.

For detailed fee information, please contact Vanessa de Bueger at v.de.bueger@aup.nl.

Amsterdam University Press

Address
Amsterdam University Press
Nieuwe Prinsengracht 89
1018 VR Amsterdam
The Netherlands

MENU

Publish with Us

Rights & Permissions

AI Policy

Accessibility

About

Staff

Contact

Newsletter

News & Articles

AUP USA and Germany

Privacy Policy

Disciplines

Academic

Educational

Reference Works

Open Access

Catalogues

Events & Conferences

Order Information

Terms and Conditions

eBooks

Recommend to Your Library

Review & Inspection Copy Policy

© Amsterdam University Press 2026